WATER SITUATION IS REPORTED IMPROVING AS RESULT OF CURBS

NO RESTRICTIONS ON PERSONS LIVING OUTSIDE OF CITY LIMITS

A situation in the Corsicana water supply described as "critical" was somewhat relieved Monday following the action of the city commission Friday in clamping a restriction on daytime lawn sprinkling.

Fred V. Blucher, city engineer, who spent the week-end keeping check on the system, reported that city pumpers were satisfied with the result of the shutdown.

Water Supply Improves.

He reported to Mayor Hubert T. Braselton Monday that both the State Orphans Home and the IOOF home had water over the weekend. The tank at the state home was filled for the first time in many days, he reported.

The commission, utilizing an old emergency ordinance, banned all sprinkling of lawns, shrubs, flower beds and trees between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Because the condition is one of pumping and pressure rather than supply, residents may water their yards between 6:30 p. m. and 6:30 a. m.

Some Violations.

Reports of violation were received at the city hall over the weekend.

Mayor Braselton said the emergency called for cooperation of residents, and that the group had no desire to penalize those who used the water knowing there was a ban against it.

As is usual in such cases there were numerous complaints voiced. Some protested that water customers outside the city limits could use all the water they desired, inasmuch as the ordinance against it does not apply in their cases.

Outside Customers.

Although these outside customers pay a higher rate for water, residents said they did not see why they should be allowed to water indiscriminately while citizens who paid for the distribution system could not.

Mayor Braselton said he hoped the emergency would end soon, but in the meantime asked that all residents, whether inside or outside the city limits, voluntarily aid in the conservation program.

VIOLENT DEATHS IN TXAS OVER WEEKEND TOTAL AT LEAST 14

By The Associated Press.

Number of week end fatalities resulting from accidents or violence over the state rose to 14 today with traffic mishaps leading the list of causes.

Six died in accidents involving motor vehicles or trains, with the remainder of the deaths resulting from drownings, shootings and a road roller mishap.

Mrs. Annie Lewallen, 50, was being held at Sweetwater on a murder charge following the fatal shooting of her husband, William, 50, at their home Saturday night, according to Sheriff Bill Sample.

W. T Wilburn, a truck driver, was charged with murder in the death at Houston of his son-in-law, Ernest L. Ballow, 24. Ballow died almost instantly Saturday night at his home as the result of a shotgun blast that struck him in the head.

FLORIDA CONTINUES BATTLE AGAINST RED TIDE OF DEAD FISH

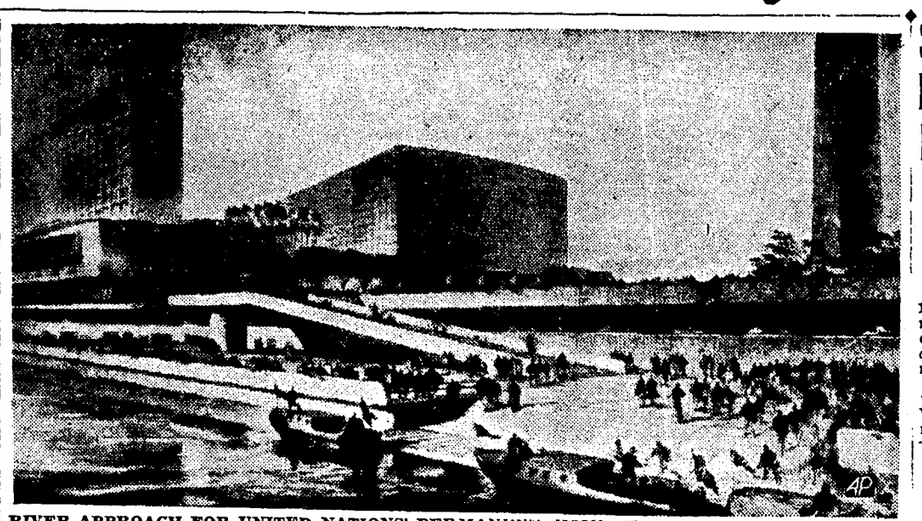

CLEARWATER, Fla., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Bureau of Engineering of the State Board of Health today was ready to join the battle against the "red tide" which had left millions of fish dead and rotting along Florida west coast beaches from Sarasota to Clearwater.

The office of Dr. Franklin P. Campbell Pinellas county health director, said David B. Lee, head of the bureu, would lead a party surveying the situation.

Thusands of fish wre washing ashore along Pinellas beaches last night, and thousands more were a few hundred yards off land in a position to move in with a change of wind.

Scientists still are trying to determine the cause of the mysterious plague.

Dr. F. G. Walton Smith, director of the University of Miami marine laboratory, said the "tide" was caused by millions of micro-organisms which poisoned the water, but what has caused the sudden increase in the number of these tiny organisms has not been learned.

Britain, Egypt Due New Clash In U.N. On Independence

BY LARRY HAUCK

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Britain and Egypt squared off for another verbal battle today as the United Nations security council resumed debate on Egyptian demands that the Tommies get off her soil.

Premier Nokrashy Pasha, personally representing his country on an issue which he says will determine Egypt's future, was ready to stress anew his contention that British troops were in the strategic Medierranean country against the wishes of its people.

Britain Cites Treaty.

Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan drafted his rebuttal speech around the 20-year Anglo-Egyptian treaty, signed in 1936 and covering the presence of troops.

Britain maintains that the pact still is in force and the charges should be dismissed. Egypt holds that the pact has been voided by provisions of the U. N. charter and other international agreements.

The other point of the complaint hinges around the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, from which Egypt also seeks to oust the British. The area now is jointly administered by the two countries.

Red Balkan View Due.

The council also was expected to hear Russia's answer to whether she could discuss any of the various compromise measures suggested for ending Balkan disorders. This case goes back on the council floor tomorrow morning regardless of the Soviet decision.

CHURCHILL REPEATS OPPOSITION TO NEW BRITISH PROGRAM

LABOR PARTY BACKS ATTLEE IN DELAYING TAKING OVER INDUSTRY

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON, Aug. 11—(AP)—Winston Churchill said tonight the labor government's "economic crisis" legislation conferred powers of virtual dictatorship on a cabinet whose prime minister "might be discarded" at any moment.

Churchill addressed the house of commons as it moved toward final action on the bill, approved last week in a preliminary vote. Earlier today parliament's Laborites in a caucus upheld the Attlee cabinet's decision to defer nationalization of the steel industry.

Churchill said "a convulsion" in the Labor party might result in the powers' falling to "the minister of health (Aneurin Bevan) or someone else."

A Socialist informant said more than 100 laborites abstained from voting at the party caucus. Attlee's margin of victory was only four votes—81 to 77. This action forced recalcitrant members to withdraw a resolution calling upon the government to undertake the steel program at the next session of parliament, opening in

U.S. MAY ASK DATA ON BRITISH SPENDING OF LOAN BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP)—An American demand for a full explanation of how Britain is spending her $3,750,000,000 loan will confront British delegates coming here to discuss their country's worsening financial plight.

Officials said today they need this sort of comprehensive statement before they can agree to relax any of the loan agreement provisions in a manner to help Britain save her disappearing dollar resources.

The report given parliament last Thursday by Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the Exchequer, is regarded by authorities here as not sufficiently detailed to provide an accurate picture of where the money has gone.

Britain has spent all but $1,000,000,000 of the credit in 15 months—about twice as fast as anticipated. At the present spending rate all the money will be gone some time in October.

American government officials, preparing for the expected visit of British financiers next week, generally indichte th.t they are sympathetic toward Britain.

Palestine Bank Is Robbed; Four Die In Jew-Arab Fight

By EDWARD CURTIS

JERUSALEM, Aug. 11—(AP)—Five youths and a girl who said "we are from the Jewish underground" robbed a small Jewish savings bank in Central Jerusalem today of several hundred dollars, which police recovered upon capturing one of the bandits.

Four Jews and an Arab died in Tel Aviv as a result of a shooting attack on a crowded suburban restaurant last night. Ten Jews were wounded. Police said the attackers were Arabs.

Hagana, the underground Jewish "defense army," asserted in a communique:

Hagana Pledges Reprisal

"The hand of Hagana will reach these murderers and their helpers and they will be punished accordingly. We will restrain ourselves from acts which are in accordance with the will of the Mufti and his consorts. Many demand that Hagna revenge this manslaughter, but it is our duty not to forget that many of our enemies are interested in bloodshed between Jews and Arabs in Palestine."

Four Jerusalem bank robbers and the girl escaped. The captured bandit was apprehended lugging cash down a stairway from the bank.

A Jewish agency spokesman termed the Tel Aviv killings "dastardly murders, undoubtedly the direct result of the government's weakness to trace and

British Crisis Is Danger To World, Mackenzie Thinks

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The sensational nature of England's economic crisis, involving as it does the great experiment in Socialism, naturally centers world attention on her, but we shouldn't allow ourselves to be misled into regarding this as solely a British Disaster.

Most certainly it is one of the momentous international developments of the post-war period. Upon Britan's degree of success in dealing with this emergency must depend largely whether the western democracies are able to hold their own against the westward sweep of an aggressive, empire building communism.

England's bad luck is a stroke of rare good fortune for the Red ism and its world revolution.

SIZZLING SUN PUTS DOZEN-YEAR MERCURY RECORDS IN SHADE

DAMAGING STORMS GIVE BRIEF RELIEF IN SOME STATE POINTS SUNDAY

Corsicanans relaxed in "cool" 100-degree temperature Monday morning after the mercury spurted to an official 108 both Saturday and Sunday, exploding 12-year records.

Confirmation of the intense week-end heat came from Mrs. W. A. Hammett, veteran government observer, who announced breaking of all marks established within the past dozen years, then the official reading was 110.

A slight cooling was noted early Monday, and there was a possibility of relief. The Associated Press reported:

Damaging storms punctured Texas' torrid heat wave in widely scattered areas yesterday, and continued rain is forecast for Central and East Texas tonight and tomorrow.

Storms Over State

The storms were at Houston, Orange, Galveston, San Antonio, Gatesville, and the Vidor community.

Rains fell in the storm area and also in Fort Worth, Beeville, Cuero, Hondo, San Antonio, Taylor, Temple, Weatherford, Victoria, Pierce, Sherman and Austin.

Temperatures dropped sharply with the showers. The mercury fell from 104 to 72 degrees in one hour in Austin. Wind gusts there reached 50 miles an hour, doing minor damage. Rain totaled .63 inches.

A "one shot" tornado was reported northeast of Gatesville

HIGH STANDARD OF LIVING, CONSUMER MARKET SEEN HERE

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Spl.)—A higher standard of living and a stronger consumers market prevail in Corsicana than in most communites in the United States, according to Sales Management's 1047 survey of buying power, covering all cities of 10,000 population and over.

With retail sales of $17,402,000 in 1946, a large increase from $12,777,000 of the previous year, the city did .018 percent of the nation's business with but .013 percent of the population of the nation. It also was ahead on a statewide basis, accounting for .39 percent of Texas' retail business with only .24 percent of the state population.

Buying Power High

How well the average Corsicana family family fared is shown by its effective buying power, which amounted, after tax deductions, to $2,978, compared to the average of $2,784 received per family in the West South Central states and to the $2,398 net income of Texas families.

Generally speaking, 1946 income in the United States remained at about the 1945 level. Sales rose considerably but much of the money came from previously accumulated savings. Last year's savings, $15.8 billions, were the lowest since 1941.

POCKETS THAT JINGLE BELIEVED GOOD, EVEN IF CASH BUYS LITTLE

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK,—(AP)—Is the working man better off in a period of high prices, such as now?

My father, who was a small business man and a part-time philosopher, thought so.

"A man's got to have something in his pockets that jingles," he would say.

During his lifetime dad had a series of grocery stores. He always set up in business in working class neighborhoods.

The last time I helped out in dad's store was fifteen years ago. I had just finished college, but it took more than a sheepskin to land a job in the summer of 1932.

So he put me to work passing out sale handbills around the neighborhood. Dad had a theory you should advertise twice as much when business slumped. In the afternoon I came back to the store and helped wait on customers during the late shopping rush.

SEN. BREWSTER REPLIES HUGHES ASKED END OF INVESTIGATION IN ANSWER TO 'COWARDLY' CHARGES

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Senator Brewster (R-Me) charged today that Howard Hughes had six times urged his senate committee to call off an investigation of war contracts with the millionaire plane manufacturer's firm.

Brewster's statement came in answer to an accusation by Hughes in Washington that the senator was "too cowardly" to continue the investigation.

The senate sub-committee had adjourned its inquiry on Nov. 17.

Here for a vacation and to address a Maine Republican meeting, Brewster told newsmen:

"Mr. Hughes started this personal phase of it. I suggested he come in and make charges under oath which I would answer.

"He was on two or three hours at a time for several days. Six times he urged the committee, and I quote "I earnestly urge the committee to drop this matter right here."

"It seemed to me he was crying 'enough' and throwing in the sponge.' That concluded it so far as I am concerned."

As to the adjournment of the investigation, Brewster said that it was "entirely in the hands of the subcommittee" which is under Senator Ferguson, (R-Mich).

Brewster is chairman of the full senate committee.

"Senator Ferguson and the committee are thoroughly competent to handle it," said Brewster.

Asked by a reporter how he personally felt "about dropping the Hughes probe," Brewster replied: "I don't understand it to be dropped."

The first bale was brought to Corsicana Monday, eight days earlier than the first 1946 bale which was also raised by Eagle.

Appreciation to all those contributing to the premium was expressed by Eagle.

Local Cotton Mills Purchase First Bale

Corsicana Cotton Mills purchased the first bale of the 1947 cotton crop ginned here for 38 cents per pound Thursday. Jack Eagle of the Chapman Ranch brought the first bale here Monday afternoon, eight days earlier than he brought the first 1946 bale.

The Mills paid $190.96 for the 492-pound bale. At the rate of $80 per ton, the cottonseed brought $33.84—total of $224.80 for the cotton and seed.

Roy M. Hopkins Gin company ginned the bale free and Hopkins is raising a premium among local merchants for Eagle.

Two Year Sentence On Charge Of Theft

Clarence Raines entered a plea of guilty to an indictment for theft over $50 at noon Friday and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary—to run concurrently with one being served at the present time.

Raines was tried in connetion with the theft, April 5, this year, of a suitcase belonging to Thomas Bell Popejoy, from a bus in the local terminal, containing clothing and a valuable camera and other properties valued at several hundred dollars.

The defendant later was returned to the penitentiary on a parole revocation following his arrest in this case. He recently was brought to Corsicana from the penitentiary on a bench warrant.

ELATED PLANE MAKER SAYS BREWSTER "TOO COWARDLY" TO GO ON

HEARINGS RECESSED TO FALL, BUT MAY NEVER BE RENEWED AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP)—A decision by senate investigators to take a three months recess of their inquiry into Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts touched off a fresh volley of charges and counter-charges from principals today.

Hughes, Hollywood film producer and plane designer, asserted in a statement that the hearings were halted until Nov. 17 because Senator Brewster R-Maine) was "too cowardly" to go on with them. He said he does not believe they will ever be resumed.

Brewster, who is in Maine, retorted that Hughes had urged six times that the senate war investigating committee drop its inquiry into his $40,000,000 war contracts. He said it appeared to him that Hughes "was crying 'enough' and throwing in the sponge."

Ferguson Announces Recess.

Brewster, who is chairman of the committee, said that the future of the inquiry is up to Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), chairman of a subcommittee actually conducting the investigation.

It was Ferguson who announced after a subcommittee meeting this morning behind closed doors that it had decided to delay further hearings.

Ferguson said the inquiry had not been dropped, but would be resumed with Hughes as a witness.

He said there were two reasons for recessing the hearings.

Two Reasons Listed.

Demands of other matters on the senators' time and the committee's inability at present to locate John W. Meyer, Hughes' publicity man who has testified to spending some $164,000 "promoting" his employer's planes by entertaining army officers, government officials and others.

Also in the wake of Ferguson's announcement were these other developments:

1. Col. James G. Hall, former chief of army air corps photo reconnaissance, told reporters he had been denied a chance to reply to testimony that Meyer spent $3,732 entertaining Hall and his associates.

Hall told a news conference he had received some entertainment from Meyer, but that it had never influenced his official decisions. He called the publicity man's spending figure "fantastic" and termed the senate inquiry "a skunk circus which has been stinking up the entire nation."

Birdwell Plans Suit.

2. Russell Birdwell, Hollywood publicity man who once worked for Hughes, told reporters he will file a $1,000,000 libel suit against Noah Dietrich, official of the Hughes Tool Company. Dietrich testified to the senate committee last week that Birdwell acknowledged falsifying an expense account and making it appear that he had entertained Jesse Jones, former RFC chairman, while in Washington in

PUBLICITY MAN SAYS HE WILL SUE HUGHES AIDE FOR TESTIMONY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Russell Birdwell, Hollywood publicity man, said today he will file a $1,000,000 libel suit against Noah Dietrich, official of Hughes Tool company, because of testimony which Dietrich gave a senate subcommittee inquiring into plane contracts awarded to Howard Hughes.

Birdwell, who said he had been called to testify before the senate war investigating subcommittee this morning, denied at a news conference that he falsified an expense account, as Dietrich testified last week.

Jesse Jones Involved.

Dietrich, executive vice-president of the tool company, told the committee that Birdwell, then working for Hughes, admitted to him that he never entertained Jesse Jones, as listed on his expense account.

Birdwell said he has instructed his attordney, to file the libel suit.

Birdwell told reporters he entertained Jones, former RFC chairman and secretary of commerce, while he was in Washington in 1940 in an attempt to publicize a plastic bomber on which Hughes was working.

This plane was the prototype for the F-11, a photo reconnaissance plane for which Hughes was awarded an $18,000,000 wartime contract. The subcommittee, inquiring into the F-11 contract, and a $20,000,000 contract awarded Hughes for a 200-ton wooden cargo plane, abruptly postponed public hearings today until Nov. 17.

Birdwell said that about two weeks ago he gave to Loyd Wright, Hughes' attorney, an affidavit concerning his participation in the matter.

"I said that in the technical sense of the word entertainment, as it has been used in the hearings, it was true I had not supplied Jesse Jones with any geisha girls, but I had spent approximately $100 on Jesse

ODOM FINISHES RECORD FLIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Pilot Bill Odom said today that he would try it again after setting a new record for the fastest trip around the world.

The 27-year old veteran flyer broke all previous globe circling records as he buzzed the Douglas Airport control tower yesterday just 73 hours, five minutes and 11 seconds after leaving Chicago Thursday on his 19,645-mile solo trip.

"The good Lord was taking care of me for a while last night," Odom said, explaining that he had dozed off from fatigue over the mountains of Western Canada and awoke to find himself flashing toward a 19,000-foot mountain peak.

Despite failure of an automatic pilot, lack of gas near the end of the trip, and extreme weariness, Odom, with his converted army A-26 bomber, the Reynolds Bombshell, broke all existing records. These included the former solo record set in 1933 by the late Wiley Post, of 186 hours and 49 minutes, and the previous flight of the Bombshell with Odom, Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer, and Flight Engineer T. Carroll Sallee, which made the trip in 78 hours 55 minutes last April.

Odom's average speed for the flight, including nine hours and 50 minutes on the ground, was approximately 289 miles an hour; but during the 63 hours and 15 minutes of flying time he averaged 310.59 miles per hour.

Franklin Lamb, Odom's flight manager, said the youthful airman would enter the Bendix air races at Cleveland Aug. 30 and is planning another global flight in late October with scientists and newsmen aboard.

For the races he will fly a plane that Lamb says still is a secret, but added that "it will do considerably better than 500 miles an hour."

The new 'round the world trip will be the hard way—via the poles—Lamb said.

The record trip just ended started at 11:53 a. m. (CST) Thursday with stops at Gander, Newfoundland; Paris, Cairo, Karachi and Calcutta, India; Tokyo, Anchorage, Alaska; Fargo, N. D., and back to Chicago at 12:58 p. m. (CST) Sunday. Three minutes later Odom landed at the Chicago municipal airport, 22 miles south of his starting point.

Funeral services will be held from the Corley Funeral Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Interment will be in the Hamilton cemetery. The rites will be conducted by Rev. Jack Goff, pastor of the Northside Baptist church, and Dan Clark.

Born, Aug. 22, 1868, she was married to the late John Rufus Knotts, Octobed 29, 1891. She resided in the Angus community for 50 years prior to moving to the home of her daughter here 18 months ago. Her husband died in 1945.

unroofing a freight warehouse early today. A roof was hurled 100 feet over boxcars on a siding, and over Highway 36.

Mercury Well Over 100

In most sections, the temperatures were well over 100 degrees yesterday, making it one of the hottest week-end of the year. Highest was 113 d grees at Henrietta. Temple, Waxahachie, and Bridgeport reported 112, San Marcos, Llano, Gainesville and Hillsboro 109, Taylor, Waco, Weatherford, and Corsicana 108.

Some slight relief was expected in the Panhandle, with lower temperatures predicted. Rains are expected in Central and East Texas.

Dallas continued to swelter, and was in its 47th day without rain. During the 47 days, from June 23 to now, temperatures have been over 100 for 15 days.

Winds, Hail, Lightning

Strong winds, hail and lightning accompanied the temperature—plunging rains with several areas reporting damages.

Orange, near the Louisiana line, was the hardest hit with electric and gas service, telephone communications and the city's fire alarm system disrupted and a number of buildings and residences damaged.

A tornado which anaprently never reached the ground was reported seen by residents of Vidor community, 18 miles west of Orange.

At Houston, winds reached tornadic velocities as high as 90 miles per hour at the Municipal Airport, tossing a score or more planes on the ground "around like peanuts."

Galveston Water Cut

Galveston residents were urged to conserve water after lightning struck and disabled the 150 horse power motor operating that city's waterworks booster plant. An emergency motor was rushed in from Houston.

A 48-mile-an-hour wind, accompanied by a driving rain and hail, descended upon San Antonio last night after the Alamo city had gone through its hottest day of the year. At 3 p. m. Sunday the mercury stood at 104 degrees there.

Cooling rains also were reported at Austin, Lufkin and Fredericksburg.

Orange Streets Littered

In Orange streets and highways were littered with limbs and debris following the 30-minute storm. A small house just outside the city limits was struck by lightning and burned. The winds, which reached 75 miles an hour in gusts, partially unroofed several residences and three government-owned dwellings and store buildings in a public housing project were damaged by falling trees.

Claude B. Mahaffey, Route 4, Hattiesburg, Miss., was seriously injured in an automobile mishap attributed to the Orange storm. The accident occurred on Highway 90, seven miles west of Orange, when Mahaffey, blinded by the storm, drove his car into a tree. He was taken to an Orange hospital.

Disrupted telephone service prevented a thorough checkup of the damage in communities surrounding Orange.

Several Houses Damaged

Several houses in Harris county and in Houston itself were damaged by the strong winds. Between 15 and 20 airplanes on the ground at the Pearland Airport were heavily damaged by winds reported reaching 70 miles per hour.

Austin had a 26-degree drop in temperature, from 104 to 78, following a .26 inch rain.

At Lufkin, the mercury skidded from 103 to 87 degrees after a .32 inch rain while at Fredericksburg, a light rain coaxed the mercury down from 104 to 78 degrees.

nct impossible, to keep her feet under such circumstances.

Prime Minister Attlee declared yesterday Britain is "certain of victory," and the consensus of observers seems to be that this forecast is warranted. However, none can say at this juncture how long the unfortunate country must struggle along the tortuous trail of harsh depression before it finally comes out upon the broad highway to recovery. Attlee himself minced no words over the seriousness of the position.

"We have to face now," he said, "before we have recovered from the effects of the war, and before our long-term plans have taken effect, the necessity of relying entirely on our own resources. This is a situation as serious as any that has faced us in our long history. We must, therefore, act vigorously and drastically."

The prime minister called on the country for a national effort comparable to that which was developed during the war.

That is a realistic approach to a tough problem, but there are certain imponderables to be dealt with. One of them is the strength of Attlee s leadership, which is being questioned by some of his own followers, especially the extreme left-wingers. It's quite possible that the economic crisis may be complicated by a political imbroglio.

The next few months are going to be crucial in the battle of England (and other hard hit countries of Western Europe) for economic recovery. That means this period is also going to be crucial in the struggle of the western nattions to keep from being enmeshed in the Red net.

chops for his family, no matter what the price. But in 1932 they were buying hamburger and cheap stew meat, and, in dad's store at least, many were paying only with paper promises.

Dad had the theory that low prices were meaningless in a period of major unemployment, as people out of work couldn't buy much anyway.

"We're better off when everybody's working even if prices go sky high," he said once. "Things move. People complain a lot, but they keep on buying anyway. Everybody has more confidence. That's when people feel good—when they can hear their pockets jingle. You can't spend with an empty pocket."

Protect Children Against Polio

By W. P. BROWN
Of Johnson's Pharmacy

Polio strikes with little warning and plays no favorites. Suddenly the dread warning goes forth: stay away from public places, do not mingle in crowds, Polio is claiming victims.

For this reason any symptom, however slight, must be regarded as serious. One thing has been determined. Taken in its early stages, Polio can be thwarted, the patient may recover, may walk again.

Every physician knows this, is on the alert to isolate, to treat, to fight this dread malady.

Consult your doctor if your child becomes listless, sniffy, runs even a slight temperature. But only the best in prescribed drugs.

TEXAS TODAY

The dog is man's best friend, but sometimes he can have too many friends. Like the dog belonging to C. D. Garrett of Dallas.

A burglar crawled through a window, was confronted by the animal, petted it, made friends, let it outside through the front door, and then took a shotgun, four shirts and a dress valued at $50.

There's no more skimmed milk for Blackie, the six-month old kitten belonging to Truvy James of Houston.

"From now on," said Mr. James, "nothing but top-grade cream."

Blackie and two-year old Bessie Laura James were playing in the yard. An 18-inch copperhead snake attacked the child, and bit her three times on the ankle.

The kitten rushed the snake, slapped it away from the child, and badgered it into a far corner of the yard, where Mrs. James killed it with a stick.

The child was rushed to a hospital and treated.

Tyler, meanwhile, had its annual battle with starlings.

The starlings move in by the thousands, take over the courthouse trees. Fire chief Henry Gin said it took them 13 nights last year to rid the trees of the persistent starlings, and 11 nights the year before.

Further, it takes firemen to rout the stubborn birds. They use over 50,000 gallons of water a night.

In Dallas, police were stumped by a request from an angry woman. She demanded that they send out a squad to silence the croaking of some frogs nearby.

If ten of the 11 hens belonging to Miss Lynne Trout of Lufkin were taking the day off, it was because they figured the eleventh member had done enough laying for th whole flock.

The egg measured seven inches around the middle, eight and a half inches lengthwise.

It Happened 25 Years Ago Today

(From the Files of the Corsicana Daily Sun)

C. B. Jordan, Drane farmer, reported the hatching of two eggs at his farm without benefit of a hen or incubator. He found the eggs in a hen's nest in some hay in his barn, and put them in a bucket under his kitchen table. Two of the eggs hatched in the bucket several days later.

Perry McCammon was named chairman of an organization which will furnish ice and milk to needy families in Corsicana during the hot summer months. Vice chairmen elected were Mrs. George E. Jester, Mrs. Drane, Mrs. J. R. Neece and Mr. John Cunningham. Mrs. Ed S. McGee was elected secretary-treasurer.

The cataloque committee of the Navarro County Fair decided to issue a 60-page booklet containing information concerning the fair and advertising.

Identity of Man Sought.

AMARILLO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Police here and in Dalhart today continued to seek information concerning an aged man who died Saturday night in a Dalhart hospital following a heart attack.

Police said the man registered under the name of W. F. Nayatt at an Amarillo hotel July 24. Death came before his identity could be learned.

NAVARRO COUNTY HAS THREE OIL TESTS DUE OR NOW UNDER WAY

Oil tests in three sections of Navarro county are being planned or are already under way.

A Smackover lime exploration test by H. L. Hunt, Dallas operator, on the E. E. Hamilton 55-acre tract, F. R. Kendall survey, two miles west of Corsicana, is reported in oil circles. It is in an area in which the Gulf Oil Corporation is heavily interested, and that firm is said to be farming out the drillsite. Hunt has been securing open acreage in the H. Hicks, J. W. Williams and C. Ratliff surveys.

C. C. Smith of Fort Worth has been given 4,000 acres of a 6,600-acre block on an agreement to drill a 5,000-foot test two miles northeast of Frost, according to recent reports. Site has been made on the Luther Dortch farm in the E. P. Chism survey. Kay Sims blocked the acreage in the Frost area.

Drilling is in progress in the test near Richland recently started by the Hargrove interests. This well is located near one completed for small production last year.

Two huge gas wells recently were completed in the Bazette Field in Northeast Navarro county by J. L. Collins and Co. and L. T. Davis.

With a small pumper hoped for, operators were bailing down during the week-end at the A. F. Richardson, et al, No. 1 Sessions, S. A. Sweet survey, Freestone county wildcat five miles east of Wortham. Some oil and a slight amount of gas were showing from perforations in Woodbine sections at 3,306-16 and 3,358-62, feet.

Ancient Pistol Shown.

An ancient pistol was exhibited Saturday afternoon by R. P. Dewey, painter. The firearm was a four-barreled, 312750 calibre pistol, 1859 patent.

The barrels are stationary except when being loaded, while the firing pin in the plunger rotates, whereby the shells in each barrel can be exploded. The barrels are three inches long.

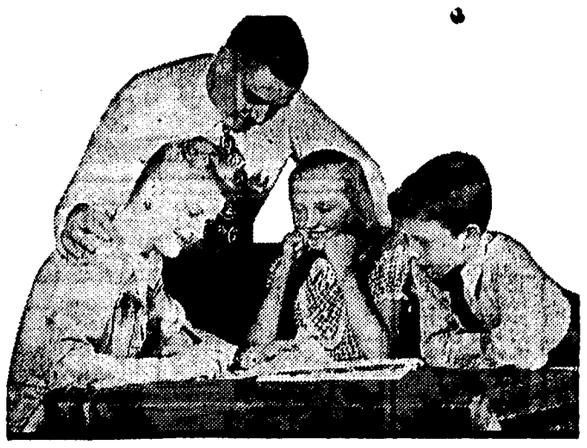

Dewey has refused several attractive offers for the gun.

1942 on Hughes' behalf. Birdwell said he had entertained Jones and that Dietrich's statement was a libel.

3. In Chicago, Attorney General Clark, in response to a question from reporters, said the justice department will go ahead with an investigation of allegations by Brewster and Hughes while the senate group's hearings are in recess.

FBI Probe Asked.

Brewster has asked a justice department investigation of Hughes' charge that Brewster offered last winter to call off the inquiry if Hughes would agree to an airline merger. Brewster has denied that.

Brewster and Hughes, millionaire Hollywood plane builder, exchanged charges before the committee in testimony last week.

Testimony Conflicting.

With both under oath, Hughes charged and Brewster denied that the senator offered last winter to call off the inquiry if Hughes would agree to a merger of Trans-World Airways.

Hughes, Hollywood film producer and plane designer, holds a controlling interest in TWA.

Brewster left Washington Friday after the subcommittee had closed hearings on that particular aspect of the case and turned to circumstances of how Hughes got his plane contracts.

"When Senator Brewster saw he was fighting a losing battle against public opinion," Hughes declared, "he folded up and took a run-out powder."

"When Senator Brewster headed for the backwoods of Maine, that was the tip-off. Washington was getting too hot for him!

"There was no reason for the other senators on this committee to continue his losing battle for him if he was too cowardly to stay here and face the music."

The Hollywood plane builder said he thought the hearing had been adjourned "because the people of this country render the final decision in any controversy" and were back of him.

Hughes previously had told reporters he does not believe the hearings ever will be resumed, despite Ferguson's announcement that Meyer will be subpoenaed for an appearance Nov. 17.

Press, Public for Hughes.

"It was very obvious from the time I first walked into this room that the public and the press were on my side," Hughes declared as newsreel cameras recorded his statement. "They believed that there was no justification for this investigation in the first place."

As he left the room, there was a burst of applause from many who had stood around outside the closed doors waiting for a glimpse of the man who has been the central figure in the senate's most sensational hearings in years.

In announcing the decision to defer further hearings for three months, Ferguson gave two principal reasons:

Two "Reasons" Given.

Other demands on the senators' time including plans several have made for trips to Europe.

The inability of the committee to locate John W. Meyer, free-spending publicity man for Hughes.

Ferguson said that Nov. 7 was the earliest date that committee members could conclude other work, including the prospective trips to Europe.

Hughes Predicts End

But, Hughes, smiling broadly, told reporters:

"I don't really think the hearings will be reopened."

The Hollywood film producer and plane builder, also told questioning newsmen he thought the reason the committee gave for postponement was "ridiculous."

"I think that they postponed it because they didn't want it to continue," he said. "I don't believe it will be resumed Nov 17."

Hughes added at an impromptu news conference that he was "quite sorry" the hearing had recessed.

"Inaccurate Testimony."

He said the committee had heard "a lot of inaccurate testimony from witnesses who were ill informed."

"Yes, I think something was accomplished by my coming. There had been a great deal of misconception about this case, for example: That it cost $1,500,000 to move the plane to the water when actually it cost only between $80,000 and $90,000."

He was referring to the still-grounded 200-ton cargo plane which he began to build five years ago.

400 Pages of Notes.

Hughes said he never had a chance to tell "half of what I came to tell." He added that he still had about 400 pages of long-hand notes."

In reply to questions, Hughes said he doubts that the big flying boat will be ready to take to the air by November.

As for the photo-reconnaissance plane, Hughes declared "I can't exactly say" when it will be completed.

"It's undergoing tests right now," the plane builder added.

Hughes had two wartime plane contracts—an $18,000,000 one for the flying boat and a $22,000,000 one for photo-reconnaissance planes.

Decision Very Sudden.

The decision to postpone further hearings until fall apparently was a very sudden one.

The hearings had gone on for two weeks and there was no indication at the conclusion of day-long hearings Saturday that there was any thought of postponement.

In the contrast to Hughes' attitude, Ferguson emphasized to newsmen that the postponement will not halt the inquiry. He said the committee staff will continue to work on the case and declared:

"The investigation is not being stopped--definitely not being stopped."

Not "Fair Hearing."

Hughes, calling the postponement a "total surprise," said he doesn't think he had "a fair hearing."

He said he wanted to withdraw however, a statement he made on his first day of testimony that "my reputation has been ruined."

"I dont' feel that way any more," he said. "The press and the public have seen the true light."

The crowd on numerous occasions applauded Hughes.

Hughes said he would leave for California by plane this afternoon.

A subpoena was issued last week directing Meyer to apepar before the committe, but committee aides thus far have been unable to locate him.

The suddenness with which the inquiry was halted was emphasized by the manner in which members had talked of the future of the hearings only a short while before the committee session.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told a reporter he had asked that Gens. H. H. Arnold, former air corps chief, and Carl Spaatz, present commander, be summoned for testimony.

Pepper said he wanted to establish primarily the need for the photo planes at the time they were recommended by Elliott Roosevelt during the war.

But Senator Ferguson said Arnold, if he was called, might have been asked why the army turned a cold shoulder to the record-breaking pursuit monoplane Hughes built before the war.

Hughes told the committee Saturday his story of a frustrated wartime ambition to become a big scale builder of fighting aircraft. Instead, he said his aircraft enterprise ended up as "small stuff" because of "bad feeling" against him and "hatred" of him by army officers.

Commenting on this testimony, Pepper told a reporter he thinks that Hughes is "sensitive about his reputation" and disappointed "because he didn't get a chance to do one of those big war jobs."

O. L. Morehead, 48, Fort Worth garage department employe, drowned near Boyd, Texas, in the West Fork of the Trinity river. He was attempting to rescue his daughter, Billie Wanda, 16. Another member of the swimming party rescued the girl. Morehead's body later was recovered.

Mrs. Lee Owens, Maryville, Tenn., drowned in the Brazos river Sunday when she stepped in deep water while on an outing. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morrow of Mineral Wells, whom she and her husband had been visiting.

Jack Allen Simmons, 16, sautarian of his May graduating class at Refugio, died at Corpus Christi Saturday after he was crushed beneath a nine-ton roller. The accident occurred three miles west of Woodsboro. Simmons was one of several high school age youths employed on a summer road project.

Johnny Waylon Vestal, two and a half years old, was fatally injured yesterday when struck by a truck while he was riding a bicycle in the driveway of a Houston tourist court.

Michael Ray Bobbitt, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Bobbitt of Houston, was accidentally electrocuted yesterday when he touched an electric cord on a floor sweeper as he played with a teddy bear in his home.

Jones and his personal press agent, Paul Wakefield of Austin, Texas," Birdwell said.

Birdwell Claims Meetings.

Noting that Jones, when he testified at the hearing, said he did not recall ever having met Birdwell, the publicity man said there were at least three meetings between them.

He said he talked with Jones in an effort to have the late President Roosevelt make an announcement from the White House about the Hughes plane.

The effort was unsuccessful, he added.

Later, he said, he telephoned Wakefield in Texas and said he appreciated his courtesy in arranging the appointments with Jones and asking, "would it be in order for me to send him a box of cigers."

"Paul Wakefield said 'the old man doesn't smoke'," Birdwell continuped. "I said 'Does he drink?' and Paul said 'He drinks red whiskey.'

"So I went out and bought two bottles of red whiskey—bourbon—and personally delivered them to Jones' secretary at the RFC office."

Birdwell declared that at Jones' request he called for Jones in a taxicab at his hotel and "he said he didn't like taxis."

On the next two occasions when he called for Jones, Birdwall said, "I arrived in a limousine with a private chauffeur." He said he also sent two silver goblets to Wakefield.

These expenditures were made "through no fault" of Jones or Wakefield, Birdwell said, but "were spent in pursuit of my duties as I saw them"

Birdwell said Hughes told him on several occasions that Dietrich was unhappy because Birdwell's fee for representing Hughes' movie interests was larger than Dietrich's salary.

The hearing was postponed today before Birdwell had an opportunity to testify.

October. Labor party left-wingers have been attacking Attlee on the ground crisis program was "too little and too late" and his leadership was uninspiring.

Red Trade Talks Urged

One faction at the party caucus called for immediate resumption of trade negotiations with Russia. Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the board of trade, replied that the next move was up to the Russians, Socialist sources reported after the secret meeting. The trade talks broke down recently when Britain refused to ease the repayment of a wartime credit to Moscow.

Other laborites called for cuts in the armed forces more drastic than Attlee was projected.

Military Cut Down

Members of the government said everything possible was being done to reduce the army navy and air force.

On the steel issue, government spokesmen told the caucus there was no intention to abandon an eection promis to nationalize the mills. They insisted, however, the cabinet should be free to choose an appropriate time.

Some London newspapers reported earlier that Aneurin Bevan had threatened to resign as minister of health if the government abandoned plans to nationalize iron and steel works.

"Crisis" Vote Due

Later the government's "crisis bill" was to come up for final action in the House of Commons, and conservatives were ready to push a series of crippling amendments to the measure, which war Prime Minister Winston Churchill last week called "a blank check for totalitarianism."

The bill would strengthen and extend government authority held over from the war, to channel labor into essential industries, take a hand in industries deemed inefficient and otherwise work for a sounder economy based on a bigger export trade. Introduced last Tuesday, it passed first and second readings during the week.

Arab Tension Mounts

Dr. Hussein F. Khalidi, member of the Arab higher executive, said the circumstance of the attack was not clear, but that "tension in increasing on three sides—British, Jews and Arabs."

The raiders, whom Jewish informants said were clad in military uniforms, fled into nearby Arab-owned farmlands after the shooting, reportedly taking with them an undertermined amount of money seized during the attack.

Obervers speculated that the foray might have been intended as retaliation for a raid which the Jewish underground organization Hagana carried out two months ago on an Arab coffee house at Fega, near Petah Tiqva (Tikvah). Two Arabs were killed and seven wounded in that raid, which Hagana said was made to halt Arab attacks on Jewish settlements.

Grenade Hits Dancers

Jewish informants said the raiders burst into the place, started a disturbance and were set upon by cafe employes and patrons, who tried to throw them out. As the raiders withdred one tossed a hand grenade onto the dance floor while others opened fire with guns.

Jewish described the shooting as the biggest Arab-Jewish clash since the Arab uprising of 1936 and expressed fear that it might lead to still more serious incidents.

Prior to the raid Hagana had issued a circular asserting that the Arabs were organizing armed bands "which will be converted into commando forces to attack the Jews" and predicted that "Arab terrorism will be increased."

Are You Making $11.00 A Day On Ten Cows

OVER GRAIN RATION COST?

It's more profitable for you to sell lots of milk today than ever before. Every extra drop you can produce means extra money. For the profit story on milk, let's look at the figures:

10 lbs. of Milw Chow at 4.5c lb, cost ..... .45

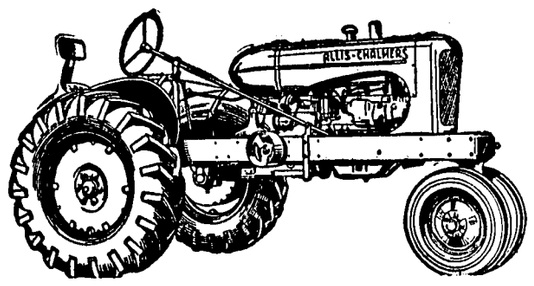

Income over cost of ration per cow per day..... $ 1.11

Income per day on ten cows $11.10

There's why it pays to feed Purina Milk Chow—the ration that is built to produce lots of milk. Purina Milk Chow is a proved milk-maker . . . cows at the Purina Research Farm helped develop it. It's made to hold cows up well in milk throughout the milking period. Come in today for Purina Milk Chow.

It's Power That Counts

The whole success of your farming operation depends upon the power your tractor delivers on your farm. It's performance on the job . . . in the owner's field . . . that counts. There is where the "WC" and its Allis-Chalmers engine have become famous.

This tractor has FULL two-plow power. It has the reserve, the ability to hang on and pull two 14-inch bottoms in tough moldboard plowing or listing—or three 24-inch discs in rugged disc plowing. With the "WC" you will never have to be content with a halfway job when the going is hard—with plow, disc harrow or bedder.

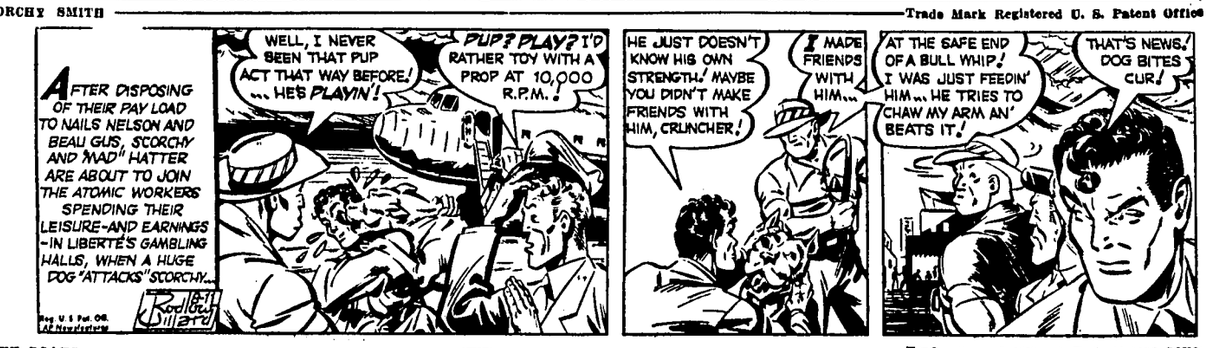

And here is a NEW kind of two-plow power—power with load-measured fuel consumption. The smaller the load, the LESS gasoline it uses. The "WC" has proved on thousands of farms that its unusual motor brings the thrift of a smaller tractor without sacrificing full two-plow power. It will do the light job for less—yet it's there with that vital reserve of hard-hitting pull when you need it most.

CORSICANA, TEX., AUG. 12, 1947

TRUMAN AND WHITNEY

The most important recent development in politics is the announcement of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, that in 1948 he will support President Truman over any Republican candidate at all likely to be nominated. This reverses his sharp threat a year ago, when the President broke the railroad strike, to have his organization spend $2,000,000 if necessary, to defeat Mr. Truman for reelection. Now Whitney has cooled, and thinks that labor might easily have a more unfriendly President. Obviously it is the Taft-Hartley law, and President Truman's veto of it, which has changed his thinking.

The Brotherhoods can be useful allies. In 1916 their support of President Wilson, after he had urged passage of the Adamson eight-hour law for railroads, helped turn the scale in his favor. In 1924 they supported the La Follette third party movement. While this was a waste of effort as far as winning was concerned, the railroad men and their families doubtless contributed a large part of La Follette's 5,000,000 votes, votes which either major party would have been glad to secure.

Part of the Republican confidence for 1948 was based on the theory that they had the anti-labor vote sewed, while the President had hopelessly antagonized the unions. This theory may have to be revised.

GALLUP AND THE PLAN

The Gallup Poll has had its ear to the ground listening to the rumble of public opinion about the Marshall Plan.

By the finds of the poll about half the voters have heard or read about the plan, and the majority of them are in favor of its support. They also approve of the idea of giving large credits to Europeans to spend in this country for their everyday needs. Voters agree with our decision to go ahead without Russian co-operation. With all this favorable sentiment, one check is noted. No one wants taxes raised to support the European program.

No doubt the average voter has been convinced that taxes could have been lowered during the last session of Congress. The people are sure that enough revenue is coming in to support European reconstruction as well as to take care of our own needs. This is pleasant if true.

But all the moral support in the world will not supply a single bushel of wheat or a piece of machinery. Approval must be backed up by funds if it is going to take practical form. And approval backed by funds will do no permanent good unless the people who get it will themselves take hold.

BRITAIN AND AMERICA

England latterly has been living on borrowed money, and now many observers have gone so far as to say she is living on borrowed time. If this is the case on both counts, the "tight little island" in indeed in a bad way.

It may be unwise, however, to count her out of the game as so many are doing. Her financial markets may have turned "soft" but it is not yet proved that the spirit of the people has likewise softened. And it is possible that Uncle Sam will continue helping her over tight places, not only from mere good will, but also from recognition of the fact that it is probably good business in the long run to keep Britain from bankruptcy and decay.

There is also the disquieting fact that in so far as Britain loses strength and influence as a world power, Russia gains accordingly and makes it all the more difficult to maintain a decent and orderly peace, with a fair chance for all.

BABY SITTING

Now that staying with children has become a recognized industry, it seems necessary that rules be established to cover it.

The practice of leaving small children in the care of older children has been carried so far in some communities that parents have been brought to court to answer charges of neglect. Contributing to the delinquency or dependency of children may bring a maximum penalty of a year's imprisonment and a $200 fine. One case where this sentence was imposed concerned two mothers who left town for two days, leaving three children aged from ten months to three years in charge of a thirteen-year-old boy.

It is generally conceded that teen-age sitters are adequate for daytime hours or early evening but in most cases, authorities agree that only a mature person should be left with small children at night. A sensible 17 or 18-year-old is usually able to take care of any emergency that may arise, but an older, experienced woman is preferable.

As the purpose of the sitter is to take care of emergencies, it seems only common sense to have one who is capable of coping with illness, fire or instrusion from outside. There may even be times when the parent should make the sacrifice of staying at home, in default of a suitable substitute.

WAR IN JAVA

Headlines dealing with the uproar in Java are puzzling to many. Why should active warfare be going on between the Dutch and their colony?

It is part of the general rebellion of subject states against their absentee governments, and began in August, 1945, when the Republic of Indonesia was proclaimed, headed by President Soekarno. This was done with the idea of preventing the return of the Dutch to the Indies. Before the Dutch returned, British troops held the fort, and were resisted strongly by the Indonesians. After long negotiations an agreement was signed by the Dutch and by the natives, calling for the setting up of a United States of Indonesia in 1949. The present warfare results from the fact that the island people refused to submit to Dutch rule in the meantime, and the Dutch insist on maintaining what they call "order."

It would seem to be a saving of lives and ammunition to set forward the date of independence and let the natives have their island now, but there are always many angles to such a problem which are not visible to those who sit at home and read the papers. This is true not from any attempt at concealment, but simply because the web is so complex that without special training and experience people cannot follow the twisting and interweaving lines of action.

What looks sensible on the facts as they appear may not always be possible because of historical commitments. But modern governments must learn to look at historical factors with a keen eye and cut red tape with the shears of common sense. Perhaps the Dutch need a new pair of shears?

SENATOR HOOVER?

Ex-Presidents would be made senators for life, by a bill introduced by Senator Owen Brewster of Maine. This would insure the country the advantage of their ripe wisdom, for as senators it would be natural for them to comment on current bills. As Ex-Presidents they might hesitate to rush into print every time they had a bright idea.

Offhand the Constitution seems to stand in the way. It provides that no state may be deprived of its equal representation in the Senate without its consent. To make Ex-President Hoover a senator would give California three votes in the upper house to all other states' two. Each one would have to agree before this proposal could be adopted, and some state would be sure to balk.

Perhaps they would have to be made senators-at-large.

It is surprisng how few Ex-Presidents there would generally be to use this privilege. Mr. Hoover has been the only one since his retirement in 1943. Calvin Coolidge was the only survivor from 1930, when William Howard Taft died, to his own death in January, 1933. At intervals there has been no living Ex-President, a far cry from the situation in 1861, when there were five. A succession of one-term presidents in the previous 20 years accounted for this oddity.

THE BIG JOB

It was observed that the President, returning from his mother's funeral at Kansas City to Washington, lost no time but plunged immediately into the work on his overloaded desk. That might be a sort of respite from grief, but it showed the burden and responsibility hanging day and night over the Presidency of the United States.

There have been men in his position who pretended to make light of the job, and thereby may have saved themselves a little of its hardest exactions but even so there has been, and is necessarily no escape from such a task.

Even in a President's seemingly lighter moments, and especially in these latter years when the President is world leader and head of our present civilization, there can be no escape.

President Truman's name and purpose are probably all right, but there are times when he seems to require an awful lot of advice.

With Congress adjourned the nation can devote itself to the really important topics, such as the big league pennant races.

"Senator raps hint of blackmail" says a headline. Well, somebody's always got to take the rap.

LETTER XVI

Beloved, we're out at the cottage.
The cheeks of the children are tanned.
I wonder if ever you've seen them
these summer days romping the sand.
Little Jane in her sun suit is lovely.
She talks like a youngster of five.
And Edgar and Ellen already have started to learn how to dive.

Beloved, the girls have re-covered the pillows for couches and chairs,
And the screen, I am sure you remember, that stood ot the foot of the stairs.
The flag at the doorway is flying from dawn to the set of the sun;
And, as far as we can see, we are doing the way that you wanted things done.

Beloved, remember you told us to laugh and have fun as we should.
Now, recalling your smile as you said it, so often I wish that I could.
I join in the fun as you bade me;
I laugh when a story is told;
But it isn't the fun you once shared in, and it isn't the laughter of old.

WOMAN ARRESTED IN MYSTERIOUS MISSING GERMAN JEWELS CASE

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—(AP)—An american army official said today he had arrested a woman emissary who smuggled Princess Hermine's jewels to her son, Prince Ferdinand Schoenaich-Carolath.

"By accident, we found she still had some of the jewels belonging to Princess Hermine which she had not turned over to the prince," said O. R. Carlucci, director of the army's criminal investigation department.

Carlucci said he would ask the Russians for a report on Princess Hermine's death on grounds that underworld characters seeking the royal jewels she possessed might have been involved. Carlucci said a physician of the Kaiser's widow reported "she was in apparent good health" before her death last Thursday in the Russian zone.

The investigator said none of the pieces of jewelry, rich in precious stones, which the prince reported missing was among the gems recovered.

Army agents said they still were unable to locate the missing treasures, which Ferdinand said were spirited from his trunk while he was living in the U. S. sector of Berlin. The prince valued the loot at $2 000,000.

Sidelights Of Odom Flight High Cost, Reynolds Pen, Kids

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Penmaker Milton Reynolds, sponsor of Bill Odom's record globe-circling flight, estimated that the trip cost $50,000, but said "it was worth it."

Reynolds said the exact cost won't be known until "all the bills come in" but that it averaged about $200 an hour "just to keep the Bombshell in the air."

The record breaking flyer wondered about whether the customs man at Karachi, India, got the fountain pen Odom threw at him.

"They wanted me to sign a thousand papers—the cockpit's full of them. I was taxiing out and the customs man ran after me.

"I just tossed him one of Reynolds' pen and kept going."

Reporters, concerned that they were keeping Odom from sleep after his trip, genty suggested, "maybe we're asking too many questions."

"That's nothing," Odom replied. "Wait until my kids get hold of me."

The 27-year old pilot has two children, Ronnie, 3, and Rochelle, 6.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN COURT MARTIAL OF NAVAL MAN OPENED

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Lt. Cmdr. John J. O'Neil, dedfending Chief Signalman Harold E. Hirshberg, 29, at his navy court martial, charged today that Hirshberg's accusers were so affected by their prison camp life in the Philippines that it had burned "a brand of hatred in their hearts."

O'Neil and Lt. Col. Fred Frey, judge advocate, presented their final arguments to the court martial in Hirshberg's trial on charges he mistreated fellow prisoners and informed the Japanese of the escape plans of three colleagues, one of whom later was tortured to death.

Asserting the prisoners were "treated more like a group of cattle than human beings" O'Neil said that "individual differences of these men became so magnified in their contorted visions that the functional parts of their brains were incapable of reasoning."

Frey reviewed the law as it applied to the nine specific charges against Hirshberg, with special reference to the charges that the chief signalman had informed the Japanese on three fellow prisoners' plans to escape.

The three were Pvt. George Garrett, of Waco, Texas, who later was tortured to death by the Japanese; Pvt John L. Baker, for whom no address was given, and Pvt. William R. Hill, 23, now a civilian living at San Pedro, Calif.

Low Corn Crop Is Forecast; Record Wheat Still Due

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP)—Government hopes for a high level of meat production next year were dampened by an official report today that corn crop prospects continue unfavorable.

The corn outlook also dims chances for a material reduction in prices of meat and corn, both now at or near record levels, as long as consumer demand continues strong.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The agriculture department today forecast production of this year's weather-hampered corn crop at 2,659,949,000 bushels and a record wheat crop of 1,427,747,000 bushels.

The corn estimate, based on conditions of Aug. 1, compares with 2,770,930,00 forecast in a special report for July 15 and with a July 1 figure of 2,612,809,000.

It is considerably short of last year's record corn crop of 3,287,928,000 bushels, but compares favorably with the ten-year (1936-45) average of 2,639,102,000. The government's production goal was 3,000,000,000 bushels. A crop of at least 3,850,000,000 bushels of good quality corn will be needed to maintain livestock production at present high levels.

Continued Export Due.

The estimate for wheat compares with last year's crop of 1,155,715,000, which was the largest to that time, and with the ten-year average of 890,306,000. This big crop will enable the United States to continue exporting large quantities of the grain to shortage areas abroad.

The production of winter wheat was indicated at 1,096,648,000 bushels, compared with 1,092,122,000 forecast a month earlier, 873,893,000 produced last year and 693,393,000 for the ten-year average.

All spring wheat production was forecast at 332,099,000 bushels, compared with 343,429,000 a month ago, 281,822,000 last year and 236,413,000 for the ten-year average.

Oats production was indicated at 1,223,644,000 bushels, compared with 1,247,454,000 forecast a month ago, 1,509,867,000 last year and 1,161,282,000 for the ten-year average.

Other Crops Forecast.

The indicated production of other crops, compared with last month's on forecast, last year's production and the ten-year average, respectively, included:

Rice 74,855,000, 75,485,000, 71,520,000 and 58,220,000.

Peanuts 2,136,895,000 pounds, no forecast a month ago; 2,036,430,000 and 1,672,885,000.

Pecans 106,320,000 pounds; no forecast last month: 76,706,000 last year.

Milk production in July was reported at 12,148,000,000 pounds, compared with 12,982,000,000 in June. 11,927,000,000 in july last year and 11,042,000,000 for the ten-year July average.

Egg production in July was reported at 4,539,000,000 eggs compered with 5,202,000,000 in June, 4,284,000,000 in July last year, and 3,791,000,000 for the ten-year average.

Suit Seeks $5,000 In Reported Beating Of Negro By Constable

John Ollie Powell, negro, entered suit Saturday morning in the Thirteenth Judicial District Court against Joe W. Allen, constable of precinct 1, Navarro county, Texas, and Aetna Casualty and Surety Company, of Hartford, Conn., for damages aggregating $5,000.

The suit was brought as the alleged result of treatment the defendant received, August 7, 1947, in the office of Bruce Nutt, police chief of Corsicana, city hall, Corsicana while under arrest.

The petition said the defendant was handcuffed and helpless and after more than an hour's interrogation, when the defendant refused to make a statement, was struck by the constable in the face with his fist, struck over the head with a blackjack, inflicting a wound about one and one-half inches long, and that after the defendant sank to the floor, the constable kicked him with hsi foot, and was warned not to mention anything that transpired.

Arrest Said Thursday.

The petition recited that the plaintiff was arrested about 10 a. m. Thursday while at work at the Whiteselle Brick and Lumber company by the constable.

Dr. Will Miller administered medical and surgical aid to the plaintiff at the county jail and several stitches were required to close the wound on the negro's head, according to the petition.

(Bruce Nutt, police chief, and Constable Allen, in statements made at and following a meeting of the city commission Friday at which time J. C. Jacobs, city attorney, who brought the suit Saturday, charging mistreatment, said the negro was subject to "spells" and experienced such a "spell" Thursday in the police office. Both officers denied mistreating the prisoner.)

Chief Not Sued.

Jacobs, in his charges before the city commission Friday, declared he would sue the police chief and his bondsmen, but later in the session eliminated the police head from his charges.

The petition recites the plaintiff has suffered headaches since he was struck and has been unable to return to work—that he is weak and dizzy each morning; that his left eye seems to b affected and he fears the nerve leading to his eye has been injured and damaged.

Actual damages in the sum of $3,000 and exemplary damages in the amount of $2,000 are sought against Allen. The Aetna company's bond for the constable is $1,000.

The plaintiff was arrested in a theft complaint filed before Judge A. E. Foster, justice of the peace.

CORSICANAN INVESTIGATES MANY SPOTS IN COUNTY TERRAIN FOR POSSIBLE OIL, WATER PRESENCE

By BOB CAMPBELL
Daily Sun Staff

A big, smiling man, his hat shading intense, almost boring eyes, can be seen walking slowly across the rugged terrain of almost any Navarro county spot.

He stops a bit, and moves on. Stops and moves. A few steps to the East, then north, then west, then south. Always moving some, stopping, moving on.

The chances are the next morning a Corsicana oil operator will receive a letter for which he has not a bit of welcome. In substance it will read: "I'm sorry, but you're going to get a dry hole on that well you've located."

The chances are he will.

The man is 62-year-old J. A. Roxburgh, 836 West Seventh Ave., a Corsicana mail carrier since 1924.

Being Scotch, it follows naturally that Roxburgh, the ever-present thorn in the usually thick sides of oil operators, is also Presbyterian. Being Presbyterian with a Scotch accent, it follows equally as easily that Roxburgh has tolerance, and strong convictions. The strongest conviction he has is that oil operators waste a lot of money drilling dry holes when there is no reason for it. He is tolerant when they tell him to go to a place for eternally informing them in advance that they're digging for dust.

One thing is certain: Roxburgh believes he has a system for locating oil wells—good, money making oil wells. He calls it oil testing by radiation. Beyond that he does not desire to go, except to say his system involves five distinct stages.

Can Locate Water, Oil

He has been locating water wells all over Navarro county for anybody asking him for the favor. He does that for free. He hasn't so far, located any dry water wells.

He will—for a financial understanding—locate oil wells the same way. He flatly states his ratio would be 10 producers for 10 tests.

"Every highway out of Corsicana crosses undeveloped oil trends", he will tell you.

Pick at random a leaf from his notebooks. It is No. 150. It concerns the J. L. Collins & Co. No. 1 Greenlee, 13 miles southeast of Corsicana. The first test (Roxburgh's test) was May 26, 1945. He looked it over, and he reached a verdict: dry. The last entry reads: "Abandoned 9-4-45 at 7510 feet. Dry."

Has Little Volumes

He has little volumes of tests like that.

Take another. The Temple Hargrove No. 1 Wallace, John Choate survey, two miles south of Richland. He tested it by radiation on June 8, 1946, and his verdict was a small producer. Production, he notes, was found at 5440 feet. It was 40 barrels of oil, and salt water.

Roxburgh, who operates on the simple theory that Nature never lies, has been a long, long time reaching his conclusions. He takes books by the dozens, and absorbs them, and digests what he considers of worth.

Being tough, he once wrote the Secertary of Interior that "people love ignorance because it costs so much."

"All growth is outward, never inward," he said. To them who seek humbly and sincerely, nature will open her secret and reward her children. All objects, animate or inaminate are composed of gas, liquids and solids. Some contain all three, others only two. All are broadcasting stations, advertising their wares. We have only to tune in, and the location of same is found."

Radiations — "partly science, partly me" is the doctrine that Roxburgh recommends to oil men instead of their beloved geology.

He denies being a "doodlebugger."

"I guess," he said, "I never knew a doodlebugger or saw a doodlebug."

Geology, Roxburgh believes, is an interesting—one of the most fascinating subjects. But he doesn't hold much faith with it when it comes to finding oil wells.

"Geology Not Answer"

"Geology is not the answer for finding oil," he said. "Geology seeks for favorable structures through DRILLING alone. They do not seek the oil itself. It is like hunting for nests, alone, hoping to find some eggs, instead of seeking for the fowls which produce the eggs."

He has some figures—dry ones. He records that from 1889 through 1943, in Texas alone, ambitious people put $1,208,380,000 in 60,419 dry holes. From 1944 through the first five months of 1947 there were 6567 dry holes costing, at prewar prices, $131,340,000.

Roxburgh doesn't like to think of that. Employment of his self-developed system of finding oil by harnessing the radiations it emits would have eliminated all that waste.

Naturally, Roxburgh said a lot of people do not agree with him. In fact, the number who do not agree with him is huge.

Some Operators Angered

Particularly, he said, do the oil operators who always receive his pre-spudding verdict by mail fail to believe what he tells them.

Some get mad.

But he keeps on informing them as to what to expect when the bit gets on down.

As said, Roxburgh has a thick hide albeit a sensative mind. He keeps a record of his work, and in it he incorporates the adverse things people, particularly oil operators, say about him.

"I guess you have a spasm when you come near oil, don't you?" one operatoor said.

Some others in the book:

Others in Book

"He is just a letter carrier. How could he know anything?

"He is just a perfect guesser. He doesn't know."

"You must think you are God. No one but Him would know that."

"I would rather lose a fortune than make you rich. It would ruin you."

"The Lord would not let you know anything I wouldn't know."

One person sat down with heat pushing the pen. He wrote Roxburgh:

"If you ever tell me again I have a dry hole, I will have my boys beat you so you won't be recognized by your folks."

He had to grin at that one. The well had been abandoned—dry.

"Some," he said, "even say I'm crazy."

"Who," he added, smiling, "ever heard of a crazy Scotchman?"

"Nothing" is the Answer.

Some people go right to the heart of a thing, drop it there, and let it rest.

Mrs. Ada Beauchamp, Kerens, reported such a person to the police department Sunday.

She said is she was driving along West Seventh Ave., a man backing away from the curb crashed his Chevrolet pickup truck into her car.

She asked him what he was going to do about it.

He said "nothing" and drove away.

RAPE TRY CHARGE IS DROPPED, NEGRO GETS ASSAULT JAIL TERM

A 10-months jail sentence, retroactive to June 19 this year, was assessed Eugene Mayfield, negro bellhop, by L. L. Powell, county judge, Friday morning.

The plea of guilty to an aggravated assault charge was entered by the defendant after a motion to dismiss an indictment for assault with intent to rape had been granted by A. P. Mays, judge of the Thirteenth Judicial District court.

The motion had been presented by Charles T. Banister, county attorney.

The motion presented by Banister and granted by Mays set out that the dismissal was sought because of insufficient evidence to prove an assault with intent to rape; that the complaining witness said the defendant touched her and then held her hands to prevent her reaching for a telephone in her room in a local hotel the night of the incident complained of—saying the defendant told her not to scream as he wouldn't hurt her; that the complaining witness said a 10 months jail sentence was satisfactory to her and that she did not desire to ppear against the accused.

The complaining witness was a resident of the hotel where the incident occurred.

The bellhop was arrested June 19 and has been in jail since that date.

Battling Heat

J. C. Gaston, district clerk, is fighting against the intense heat in his office on the second floor of the courthouse.

In addition to the 103 (official) 106 (unofficial) heat yesterday afternoon, what little breeze was blowing was from the northwest—affording his southeast corner office little relief. He poured water on the floor so that there would be moisture in the air stirred by the electric fans.

Little relief had been received Friday morning, so the water treatment again was employed. But the office was still plenty hot.

PRINTER PUBLICIZED AS VETERAN AFTER MERE 51 YEARS IN TRADE PUT IN SHADE BY DANIEL'S 56

By BOB CAMPBELL
Daily Sun Staff

W. C. Daniel adjusted his spectacles one torrid day this week and scanned with nothing but gloomy condesnension an article appearing in a morning paper printed some miles to the north of Corsicana.

The narrative that attracted the prejudiced eye of Daniel was a by-line bit by the East Texas representative of the urban press and told of a printer, one Gus Moore, of Jacksonville, who had been settfing type for 51 years.

Daniel, who is a linotype operator for the Corsicana Daily Sun, read the account word for word, and said "Humm," which, for a printer, is quite a bit of talk.

The Daily Sun printer, who came here 24 years ago to work a week just to fill in during the vacation period, and never got away, did not wish to detract from the aforesaid Moore's record, but he can add, being a printer.

Exactly 56 Years.

He looked back over a lifetime devoted to making words out of molten metal, and figured it, fine-hair like, down to 56 years.

"It does not take a genius or a reporter to figure mine out," Daniel said. "I am 67 years old. I started work as a printer's devil at 11. Eleven from 67 leaves 56, I, of course, am two years younger than that Mr. Moore of Jacksonville."

So there it figures out.

At 11, Daniel was short of feet and inches and couldn't reach the benches and type cases of the Farmersville Weekly Gazette, paper on which he had been given a job at no pay.

Experienced at 12.

He "deviled" a year and ended up being able to set three galleys of 10-point type a day. A seasoned printer, aided by a series of encouragers such as straight rye, could call four galleys a fine day's work.

"After that I started drawing money—$18 a month," Daniel said.

As proof that hard work leads to success, Daniel points out that he was able to holst himself by his own bootstraps to the magnificent pay of $14 a week. He worked 16 years for the Kaufman Herald and Kaufman Sun, as superintendent of the composing room. The "superintendent of the composing room" of the Kaufman Herald handset the type for eight pages every week. He handled the news and the ad copy, and all the printing work on the job side. He ran the press. After that his week's work was done, except that he also had to mail out the papers. He was able to set six galleys by then.

Daniel worked at Wills Point, Kemp, Athens, Commerce and around. He was working for the Farm and Ranch in Dallas when he was "borrowed" to help out at the Daily Sun during vacation. He doesn't recall how or why he never did go back to setting type about farms and ranches.

"Weary Willie Waterhouse."

Although a great admirer of Weary Willie Waterhouse of Walla Walla, Wash., Daniel had none of his tendencies. Weary Willie Waterhouse of Walla Walla, Wash., was a great tramp printer of the old days, although the truth being that he was more tramp than printer. He contacted Daniel at intervals, a contact in each instance meaning at least a stack of cakes and a little help in exchange for fine conversation.

It is said that Weary Willie, who would do practically anything to keep from having to work a day, once was inveigled into putting in some eight hours on the Corsicana paper. He neither forgot nor forgave. He would come to Corsicana, but he shunned the people who did the hiring.

After 56 years of work it occurred to Daniel this summer that maybe he needed a vacation. It was just like a man suddenly deciding he needed an airplane. He never had had one in the 56 years of getting his hands dirty.

He took a week off and went to Laredo to visit his wife's son, and family. He could have gone to New York to visit his two daughters, one of whom lives in Scarsdale, the other in White Plains. Or his brother—also a printer—at Taylor. Another brother, Charlie, works with him on the Sun.

Doesn't Want to Quit.

A member of the International Typographical Union since 1916, Daniel could retire now and draw his pension and escape the withholding tax and things like that.

He doesn't want to quit.

He doesn't want to any more than he did when he was working in Kaufman as "superintendent" of the composing room. A linotype salesman with a cold eye on the commission involved asked Daniel to quit.

"I'll never sell that old man in there a linotype machine as long as you're setting six galley business," he moaned.

And he didn't, either.
